b. A final review was conducted of the plans for the Printing Services Division Building to be constructed within the present Headquarters Building compound. The review revealed that the required security and safety features had been incorporated into the plans with the exception of a few minor elements. The plans were approved contingent upon correction of those deficiencies.

c. A demonstration was conducted on a new type badge machine developed by [REDACTED] as a further step in the continuing process of attempting to develop a practical means of insuring greater security control of Headquarters Building. A demonstration of a personnel identification machine by [REDACTED] was given to OS representatives. The item demonstrated is a prototype but appears to have definite possibilities to a badge machine system.
